

Famous Hill Made Memorial To Late Sir Arthur Currie

St. Sauveur Hill Perpetuates
Name Of Hill 70

DEDICATION SIMPLE

Unveiling Of Plaque By
Graduate Follows Address
By Col. Bovey

To the solemn echoes of the "Last Post" the St. Sauveur hill becomes "Hill 70" in the presence of hundreds of silent and uncovered spectators. The famous ski hill of the Laurentians changed its name while a guard of honour from the McGill C.O.T.C. stood at attention about the memorial plaque.

Named after the hill which will live long in Canada's war history as that where General Sir Arthur Currie conducted his first major operation as Corps Commander in France and saved the coal mines of the Lens district from the enemy "Hill 70" at St. Sauveur was dedicated to the memory of Canada's war-time Corps Commander. At the same time a bronze memorial plaque naming the hill was unveiled.

The Late Sir Arthur Currie

The ceremony was impressive in its simplicity. Half-way up the slope of the famous ski hill which overlooks the placid village of St. Sauveur des Monts, the bronze memorial plaque had been erected in front of a massive boulder. On either side of the rock stood three members of the Red Birds Ski Club, for it was this organization of McGill graduates and undergraduates which, through its honorary president, W. B. Converse, had arranged the ceremony. On either side forming three sides of a square stood members of the guard of honour from McGill University C.O.T.C. with a bugler at either flank.

Col. Bovey Speaks

Following a brief address by Col. Wilfred Bovey, of McGill University, who was on General Currie's staff overseas, the memorial plaque was unveiled by Harry Pangman, president of the Red Birds Ski Club, Ven. Archbishop J. M. Almond, then dedicated the hill and memorial plaque. The kilted buglers from the Black Watch, sounded the Reveille and the guard of honour, ski equipped, moved down to positions at the side of the newly named hill where the competitions of the Red Birds Ski Club were being carried on during the afternoon.

E. Reid Addresses Sociological Society

Lloyd Reynolds Also Speaks
To Gathering At Strathcona Hall

"The Doukhobours in Canada" will be the subject of an address to be delivered by Ewart Reid, M.A., at a meeting of the Sociological Society to be held this evening, at 8 p.m. in Strathcona Hall. Mr. Reid will treat the subject in a sociological manner, and Lloyd Reynolds, M.A., assistant in the Department of Sociology, will present a contrast to the Doukhobours in a treatment of the Mennonites.

The speakers are qualified to deal with their respective subjects. Mr. Reid has spent several years on a study of the Doukhobour colony in Canada spending considerable time in an intimate acquaintance of their problems of social and occupational adjustment. He is now engaged in a further extended study of this group. Mr. Reynolds has equally studied the Mennonites by first-hand contacts and has written on them.

The Doukhobours, a Russian religious sect which because of persecutions under the Czarist regime migrated to Canada in 1898 and 1899 under special arrangements by Queen Victoria, are little known to the Canadian public, except for what sensational news has come out sporadically in newspaper headlines. Because of their communal economic organization, their attitude towards education, and their general fear of secularizing influences they have now and again come in sharp conflict with Canadian authorities. There have also been dissensions within their own ranks and such offshoots have sprung as the "Sons of Freedom."

They have received notorious publicity through their nude parades and through the stormy fortunes of their leaders in Canada, particularly the

Vassar's President Will Give Address

DR. HENRY N. MACCRACKEN, President of Vassar College, will be the speaker at a dinner at the Queen's Hotel on Friday, March 9th, at 7 p.m. The dinner is open to graduates and undergraduates of McGill. Tickets are $1.00 each.

Dr. MacCracken is a graduate of New York University, and also studied at Harvard. During the war, he was organizer and director of the Junior American Red Cross, and afterwards started similar organizations in several European countries.

Ten years ago, he instituted the "Kosciusko Foundation" for memorial scholarships and the promotion of intellectual and cultural relationships between Poland and the United States. Under this Foundation many professors and students have been sent to and from between the two countries.

Romantic Composer Led Interesting Life

French Musician Topic Of Professor's Lecture In
Stella Theatre

POPULAR IN FRANCE

Many Famous Compositions
Due To Untiring Efforts
Of Hector Berlioz

Professor Rene Du Roure, chairman of the Department of Languages at McGill, who was guest-speaker of the "Conferences-Auditions" at the Stella Theatre, on Saturday evening, gave a most interesting and witty lecture on the life of Hector Berlioz, the great French composer. Born in 1803 at La Cote St. Andre (France) Berlioz died in 1869. Besides being the musical master of France of his time, and musical critic of "Les Debats," he was a Member of the Institute, and Chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

Berlioz was not originally destined for the study of music. He was a medical student when he decided suddenly to be a composer against his father's wishes. He subsequently won the famous "Prix de Rome." But strange enough he could only play a few minor instruments; he could not play the piano, for instance! His masterpieces were all orchestra music.

Romantic Life

The main characteristics of Berlioz's life, Mr. Du Roure said, was that he always was a "romantic," both in his daily life and in his great works. The main influences that marked his life were Shakespeare, who was his God, and Byron whom he greatly admired, and Goethe from whom he took the subject of his "Damnation of Faust."

His was a mind of creative imagination, and was always building up romances, which he lived out in his soul. High-sounding and verbose adjectives characterized his speech, overflowing with enthusiasm.

He married twice, and when death overtook him at 66, he was still willing to marry his third great love! But despite his popularity with women and his great successes, he was always in a sad mood, as befitted a true son of Romanticism, and his soul was full of bitterness towards the decline of his life.

His Works

Berlioz was a great admirer of Gluck, and a personal friend of Beethoven, Paganini, Liszt and Wagner (at the beginning of the latter's career). He was a great composer and orchestra leader, very popular in France and in Germany. Amongst his famous works should be mentioned: "Benvenuto Cellini," "The Trojans," "The Requiem," "The Youth of Christ," "The Damnation of Faust," and "The Fantastic Symphony" recently played by the Montreal Symphonic Orchestra.

present Peter Verigin the 2nd. It was last year that the trial of Peter Verigin for perjury and his subsequent imprisonment and attempted deportation proceedings resulted in those sensational legal hurdles of one court over another and the phenomenal plane flight of his attorney from Saskatoon to Halifax to save the leader! Just in the nick of time, from being deported. These and other incidents in the stormy history of this people, Mr. Reid will relate. He will stress, however, their particular heritages in an attempt to show how difficult the problem of adjustment to Canadian conditions is for them.

Mr. Reynolds, dealing with the Mennonites, another religious sect, will portray the group life of this people, the changes that have occurred in their cultural heritages consequent upon their exposure to Canadian influences.

The meeting will be open to discussion and the speakers will answer any questions put forward. Refreshments will be served at the end.

C.C.F. Head Asks Student Support Of Necessary Reforms

Mr. J. S. Woodsworth M.P.
Addressed Labour Club
In Union Friday

SYSTEM NOW OBSOLETE

Breakdown Of Present System
Evidenced By Unemployment
And Distress

Student support of the C. C. F. in its endeavours to evolve a planned economy for Canada to replace the completely discredited system of capitalism was requested by J. S. Woodsworth, speaking before a large audience at the Labour Club meeting in the Union Ballroom last Friday evening. Mr. Woodsworth, President of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, pointed out the various ways in which capitalism had failed and went on to indicate the student's role in the challenge of capitalism.

The fact that two million, or one-fifth of the population, was dependent on the government or their friends for support and that many others are on the ragged edge of unemployment is a clear indication that capitalism has failed, the speaker pointed out. When the standard of living is so low in Canada that starvation wages can be paid as revealed in the recent government investigation then we know that our system is failing. Also the downfall of agriculture and the destitution of thousands of farmers is indicative of this failure.

Interest Charges Heavy

Our condition is such, the speaker maintained, that we are merely surviving by borrowing large sums of money and soon our borrowing power will be at an end. Today with over 63 per cent of our income going to pay interest charges we cannot hope to make any progress and a new system is necessary.

It was this situation that led to the formation of the C.C.F., Mr. Woodsworth pointed out, after it was evident that both the Liberals and Conservatives want things as they are and refuse to undertake necessary changes. "The C. C. F. desires to base the problems of production and distribution on the basis of human needs and not on the basis of profit. They desire to prevent the exploitation of one class by another and seek more leisure and a richer life for all. They will respect racial and religious minorities and do not desire to suppress individualism or to abolish private property."

Present Machine Doomed

The obsolete machine now functioning in Ottawa cannot survive, Mr. Woodsworth claimed. The process of social and economic transformation can be made through political action and can be worked out along Canadian lines, the first step, being the socialization of the banks in order to gain control of the currency and credit of the country. Gerry Sampson, President of the Labour Club, occupied the chair.

Spring Dance Held

Large Attendance Proves Its Popularity

Last Friday evening at the novelty dance given by the S. C. M., Strathcona Hall was comfortably filled with fun-making couples. These were imbued with the seasonal "Spring Fever," and quite enjoyed their annual gambol on the dance floor. This informal gathering was appreciative of the music and excellent refreshments provided.

In the intermission Ken McMillan and Fred Owen entertained the guests, and several amusing features were also presented.

Banqueteers Meet For "Pep Luncheon"

At one o'clock today the Union Grill Room will be the scene of a "PEP" Luncheon—a product of the Arts Undergrads Society. This lunch is provided for Class Presidents and those whom they have chosen to work with them in the promotion of the Arts Informal Banquet this Wednesday evening at the Queen's.

David Goodman, Treasurer of the Society, will speak to the workers on the general scheme of organization for the sale of tickets while a complete outline of the program of the Banquet will be made by the President, Malcolm Ransom. The objective set for the ticket campaign is from 200 to 250 and it is urged to all those who have been notified by their class president be present in order to make this goal possible.

Tickets For Red And White Revue To Appear Soon

Students And Staff Members
To Get Reductions

WITH the opening of the Box Office for the Red and White Revue on Wednesday, the Executive has announced the price list for the various performances of "Bad to Verse." Tickets for the show Wednesday evening are priced for students at 85 cents, and $1.10 for outsiders. Thursday and Friday evenings are $1.10 for students, and $1.35 for the general public. Tickets for the matinee performance on Saturday afternoon are 85 cents for all, and student prices for Saturday evening are $1.35, and for the public, $1.50.

Students and members of the staff are therefore assured of substantial reductions on the price of seats for all but the matinee performance. As usual, the presentation of an athletic coupon will ensure the lower rate. The lucky number this year is 25.

With the show a little over a week away, the Committee feels satisfied with the progress made by the cast at rehearsals. Jack Waud and his assistant detective, Tiny Webb, have been practicing sleuthing in their spare time and are now getting onto the finer points of the game. By the end of the week, they should be as polished a pair of bloodhounds as ever sniffed a trail.

The Christmas Graduates Society has entered into the spirit of the thing; the actors playing the parts of the members have been flunking all their class tests lately to try to get used to the part.

Palace Theatre To Entertain Glee Club

Scenes Of McGill Being Shown At Theatre This Week

At the invitation of Mr. Gene Curtis, manager of the Palace Theatre, the McGill Glee Club will attend tonight's performance at that theatre. The invitation is occasioned by the fact that an Alumni Glee Club under the direction of Reinold Werrenrath supplies incidental music to a tour of our own campus that is being presented on the screen.

Members of the Glee Club will meet their director, Louis C. Theobald tonight at 8.45 in the Union, and will proceed down to the theatre in a body. The last show does not start until 9.00 o'clock, so that the club will be in time to see the entire presentation which includes, in addition to the McGill feature, two films entitled "Six of a Kind" and "Search for Beauty."

Shakespeare Topic Of Goethe Lecture

"Shakespeare in Germany" will be the subject of the lecture to be sponsored tonight at 8.30 p.m. by the Goethe Society in room 44 of the Arts Building. This lecture, the third in a series of lectures given by this society, will be delivered by Dr. Graff of the Department of German at McGill University.

Dr. Graff will deal in particular the death of Goethe. This will with the period from 1730 until the death of Goethe. This will include an account of the period preceding Shakespeare's advent in Germany and a summary of his influence on German Literature.

These lectures are given in English and the public is cordially invited to attend. The Goethe Society has in the past been instrumental in bringing to Montreal audiences a better appreciation of German literature.

Band To Play

Banquet Before Friday's
Game

The Band has been especially requested to perform at the play-off games between McGill and Canadians. Therefore all band-members are asked to be present on both Wednesday and Friday nights of this week if at all possible.

On Friday night at 5.45, the band will hold its Annual Banquet in the Union Grill, when band-activities for the coming year will be discussed and the election of officers will take place. All members are expected to attend the Banquet, after which they will proceed to the Hockey game. Uniforms (or both games) will consist of band-sweaters and caps. Bandmembers are asked to be on hand at 7.45.

Work Of Dominion Government During Depression Outlined

Dr. R. J. Manion Gives Address
At People's Forum

SITUATION IMPROVED

Socialization Of Banks Industries And Public Utilities Undesirable

"The Dominion of Canada has come through the depression as well as any country in the world, except perhaps France," stated the Honourable Robert James Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals in the Bennett government, in an address at the People's Forum yesterday afternoon. The topic was "Canada Through the Depression."

Piloted through its worst times by the Bennett administration, Canada is now on the up-grade. Commodity prices and farm prices are going up, while mining and industry are improving. Unemployment on the other hand is on the decrease. Unlike the United States, the Dominion was spared the crash of bonds and all the consequent suffering which that brought on.

Post-War Crisis

The crash was largely the result of post-war nationalism, when every country in an endeavour to be self-sufficient, raised its tariffs, ending in a falling off of trade by over sixty per cent. Unemployment increased, strikes threatened, suffering was visible everywhere. Of all this, Canada had its share. Canada's debt, which had been $800,000,000 before the war, had increased to $2,400,000,000. The uncontrolled debt which had been $25,000,000 in 1914, was $250,000,000 in 1934. That excluded the cost of government services which in 1934 amounted to over $100,000,000.

The government was face to face with a situation for which it was not responsible. Believing that the crisis would soon be over, the government spent over $30,000,000 on public works and encouraged municipal and provincial public expenditures to the amount of $480,000,000. The Dominion government also gave huge loans to the provincial governments to help

Maccabean Circle Dance Wednesday

Many Novelties Planned For Club's First Informal

Next Wednesday evening in the Union Ballroom the first social event under the auspices of the recently re-organized Maccabean Circle will be held in the form of an informal dance. Arrangements for the affair are practically complete, as it has been decided that Syd Flanders and his orchestra will supply the music while decorations of various types will grace the ballroom. It has also been arranged that the reading room be arranged as a sitting-out spot while a special menu is promised by Mr. Annett of the Union Cafeteria who is doing the catering.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Batslaw and Mr. H. Carl Goldenberg, Lecturer in Economics and past president of the Maccabean Circle have consented to act as patrons for the event. All three were former members of the society and have maintained an active interest in its activities since graduation. The proceeds of the dance are to be given to charity.

Already a number of graduates and former members of the club have indicated their intention of being present while all members and many outsiders are expected to be present. Tickets for the affair have been put on sale and may be secured at the price of one dollar per couple from any of the committee members including Mark Goldenberg, Leo Kirschberg and Sylvia Cardon.

Hurly Burly Undergrads Seek Hurdy Gurdy Man

A NEW KIND of Treasure Hunt has been started by the Arts Undergrads which has filled the city over the week-end with hordes of hungry-eyed seekers who thronged the slushy streets of Canada's Metropolis searching diligently, like Diogenes, for a man—but, unlike Diogenes, the object of the hunt was a Hurdy Gurdy Man.

The highways and Byways of the city have been scoured for a man who will play that highly complicated instrument known in the vernacular as a Hurdy Gurdy. Not that the Arts Undergrads have gone Highbrow or music-mad—or at least we hope not—but for some dark and no doubt sinister reason the Executive of that

Candidates For Campus Posts Present Platforms

More Extensive Use Of Union For Dances, Teas And Banquets Promised By Nominees To Union Offices — Candidates For Presidency Of Students' Society To Make Appeals Tomorrow — Debating Union And Athletic Representatives Take Office By Acclamation

PLATFORMS outlining their policies and plans if elected have been issued by many of the candidates for the student executive positions which will be contested at next Thursday's balloting. D. Lorne Gales and John F. Porteous, both of Law '35 are the candidates for President of the Students' Society and their appeal to the students will be published tomorrow.

Literature Society To Hear Discussion By Professor Noad

THE English Literature Society will hold its last meeting of the year on Wednesday at 4 o'clock in the Union Grill, when Professor A. Noad will discuss "Gerald Manly Hopkins and His Influence." Election of officers for the coming year will take place, following Professor Noad's talk.

In recent years there has been an intense revival of interest in the poetry of Gerald Hopkins, who died about fifty years ago. His concentration in the experimental field was great and his influence on poetry and particularly on metre are being duly recognized. Some of his poems are difficult to read, but they undoubtedly have a definite place in classical literature.

Arts Students Hold Banquet Wednesday

Final Function Features
Skits, Songs, Speeches,
Smokes

WOODSWORTH SPEAKS

Special Rate Of 60 Cents
For Dinner In Queen's
Hotel

Those Artmen who intend to go to the Hockey game this Wednesday will note with interest that the time of the Arts Banquet has been set at six o'clock on Wednesday instead of the previously announced hour of 6.45. This alteration will enable all who are present to reach the game on time. The Banquet which is the final function of the Arts Undergraduates' Society for this season will take place in the Spanish Room of the Queen's Hotel.

A special rate for Arts students has been made possible which will enable them to get a $1.10 meal for the sum of 60 cents—while an evening of interest and entertainment is thrown in as well. The Banquet is informal.

Woodsworth Speaks

Mr. J. S. Woodsworth, member of the Federal Parliament, has been obtained from Ottawa for the occasion. Dean Johnston has already signified his intention of being present at this function and it is hoped that other members of the staff will also be present.

Music and mirth will have a prominent place on the program while a few skits will also be presented for the entertainment of the festive Artmen. A complete statement of the financial status of the Arts Undergraduates' Society will be presented, which, it is expected, will show the sound status of the society. This will be one of the few instances in the recent history of the Society in which the members have had the opportunity of seeing just how their money is spent and it is expected that a real interest in the activities will be aroused.

I BELIEVE that the chief function of the Union is that of a club for undergraduates; it should be the centre of the various social and intellectual organizations of the university. I favour the granting of clubrooms, where possible, to those societies requiring them and believe that the Union can only serve its full purpose if the House Committee adopts the policy of strong co-operation with all undergraduate undertakings. With regard to the Cafeteria I believe in the continuation of the present policy, of operating it on a non-profit making basis with a view to serving good meals at the lowest possible prices.

(Signed) Donald Small.

SIMPSON GRISDALE issued a statement over the telephone last night declaring that in his opinion the Union had been well administered during the past year, but that it would be in the interests of the student body at large that the executive offices circulate so as to allow representation to the various faculties.

Crabtree's Letter

To the Student Body of McGill University:

If the Student body favour me with their confidence in next Thursday's elections, appointing me to the Presidency of the Union for 1934-35, I promise to serve them to the best of my ability, and do my utmost to warrant that confidence.

Six years experience as a student at McGill has led me to believe, in common with others, that far more can be done to extend the use of the facilities that the Union provides, but at the same time, having been Secretary of the Union in 1931-32, I feel that I am not unimpressed of the nature of those difficulties that such a new program may entail.

The Union should be the centre of all student activities, and it is the duty of the executive to see that this is the case. There is no need for class banquets to be held in all parts of the city when a bit of planning and co-operation by the Union House Committee could ensure an excellent meal in the Grill at a moderate price.

With regard to the Cafeteria the caterer should be prevailed upon to give a wider assortment from day to day. Last fall much praise was given to the fine meal for 35 cents that could be obtained in the Union, and it is undoubtedly a good meal, but you grow tired of the self same menu day after day, particularly if the standard of the coffee ranges from poor to bad.

In order to better acquaint students with what is going on in the Union it is essential that there be more co-operation between the house executive and the McGill Daily. Every issue should carry some small section of "Union Notes" in order to impress on the student that after all there is a very fine club house to which he is a member and to which he pays a fee, where there is some kind of entertainment for him every day. This year women students were permitted to attend the jazz teas, but not more than three or four attended. These teas have wonderful possibilities if the executive obtain some form of entertainment, and there is an abundance within our own domain, to get the students interested, and take proper steps to see that it will not only be a stag party.

These are only a few of the many changes that a wide awake and ambitious executive could effect, and in asking for your support I promise to keep your interests foremost in my thoughts.

Yours faithfully,

(Signed) Herbert K. Crabtree.

"Hill 70"

THE MEMORY of a great Canadian was fittingly paid tribute to yesterday when "The Big Hill" at St. Sauveur des Monts became "Hill 70," dedicated to the late Sir Arthur Currie, Principal and Vice-Chancellor of McGill University.

Named after the hill which will live long in Canada's war history as that where Sir Arthur conducted his first major operation as Corps Commander in France, "Hill 70" immortalizes the memory of one whose role in peace and in war justifies continued remembrance on the part of those with whom he came into contact.

Response!

IT IS AN encouraging sign for the future of student government when we find the men nominated for the various campus positions interested enough and sincere enough in their purpose to submit platforms outlining the policies they intend to adopt if elected to office.

This response to the suggestion tendered by the "Daily" is proof that apathy does not reign supreme on the campus. All that now remains to make the coming election a successful one is for the student body to study these platforms carefully and to attempt in some measure to form an opinion of the men into whose hands they are to entrust the control of their affairs during the next session.

Who Will Remain?

WHILE IT IS continually being impressed upon us that ours is an age, which, for better or worse, will go down in history, it is interesting to speculate which of the prominent personalities of our own day will survive the influence of time and be remembered by future generations.

There are more ways than one of attracting the attention of the public and notoriety—sometimes appears the best. A recent analysis of the amount of publicity given by the press to various groups in society reveals the fact that the leaders in the criminal class command a great deal of attention. It may be that many of these men will form the subject of stories and of public interest for many years to come, even as some of the robber bandits of old are still remembered while, ironically enough, all of the victims of their depredations have passed into oblivion.

Those people are best remembered whose lives or works are most singular. Eccentricities, where they are recorded for posterity, afford likelihood of such an immortality. The current season's hit, the man who strikes the popular fancy of the moment is often, however, passe even before he dies.

The author who writes a book which will speak to future generations may well survive his own time. In an age of literary "overproduction"—as one author has cynically expressed it—it is all the more difficult to point to those writers who seem destined for the Hall of Fame. Experience has shown that popular works are as often as not those which are written to appeal to some passing fancies or fads and when that is so the author—acclaimed in his own time—is soon buried in some library.

Painters, sculptors and musicians are continually attaching their names to masterpieces of art. Theirs is work which not only brings enjoyment to their own age but is a gift to the future. We know of great men today in these fields and yet some of the really great, we leave future ages to unearth.

A few in our own day have reached eminence and seem assured of future glory through sheer force of character. Great men of today are the "forgotten men" of the future. It appears that it is not given to many who are now in the limelight, to be remembered in the future, while some of the mute inglorious Miltons of our time will only receive their due recognition from future generations.

REVIEWS

Capitol

IF JEROME KERN and his collaborators had released the moving picture rights to "Cat and the Fiddle" within a year after the play had been staged, it would have ranked as one of the very best of musicals. Coming now after a series of such films have taken its original ideas for their own purposes, the original does not appear quite so fresh. This does not prevent "The Cat and the Fiddle" from constituting very excellent entertainment, for it is that, and more if you have missed some of its take-offs in the near past. Lacking some of the splendour and unity that must have adorned the stage version, this offering follows the requirements of musical comedy very well by avoiding a bothersome tortuous plot, and by including the miraculous last minute saving of the show. How these people improvise (according to the story) is wonderful to behold. The music, being written by one of the few men who know how to write original modern songs, is delightful, even though off-beat, and some of the arrangements are unique. Ramon Novarro is a perfect dashing young composer, and his voice is no mean embellishment to the picture. Jeannette MacDonald is grace and beauty and sweet voice combined. Jean Herscholt and Charles Butterworth (as a comic harpist) do not let their parts down. Worthy entertainment that is rounded out by two amusing shorts.

Palace

THE current major attractions at the Palace are the ideal tonic for the frayed nerves of the tired businessman. They are guaranteed to save you the trouble of thinking, and will supply you with a sufficient amount of hearty laughs to leave you with that rather satisfied after-taste.

"Six of a Kind" brings together six of the funniest screen comedians, namely W. C. Fields, Charles Ruggles, Burns and Allen, Mary Boland, Allison Skipworth, adds a couple of fairly good gags, throws in a dash of a plot, shakes well before using, and the result brings what it was intended to produce—laughs. Charlie Ruggles shows that he can be a riot even when sober, and W. C. Fields runs him a close second, when drunk. But spare us from Gracie Allen!

"Search for Beauty" with virile Buster Crabbe, and a bevy of beautiful girls and hefty he-men, including a Montreal product would fall rather flat if it weren't for the efforts of Jimmy Gleason and Robert Armstrong, who convince us that crime don't pay in the most rollicking fashion.

An interesting feature, taking us through the campus of Old McGill under the guidance of Graham MacNamee, and to the tunes of the Alumni Glee Club, singing the familiar college tunes, completes this satisfactory programme.

Loew's

The stage presentations at Loew's theatre are again excelling themselves in an unusual melange this week with their "Listen In" idea featuring the "Three Radio Rogues." Other featured performers are John and Edna Torrence, dancing stars, Mary Goss and Charlie Barrows in musical comedy numbers, and the Three Emeralds in a tumbling act. The Three Radio Rogues are especially outstanding in their efforts, while the twelve Loew's Canadian Rockets present several interesting routines in attractive settings.

The feature picture is a mystery comedy, "Four Frightened People" with Claudette Colbert and Herbert Marshall. As usual they turn in a stellar performance and provide first class entertainment.

Re The Duke di Rignano

The Editor,
McGill Daily.
Sir:

All those who listened last Wednesday in Moyse Hall to the Duke di Rignano's brilliant lecture on "Italy and the Modern World" must have regretted that time did not allow him to discuss the present economic conditions of Italy. The subject is of special interest and importance to citizens of this province in view of the very close resemblance between the Italian labour law outlined by the Duke and the Collective Labour Agreements bill now before the legislature at Quebec. I hope, therefore, that you will allow me space to supplement the lecture with a few facts drawn from the report of the Commercial Adviser of the British Embassy in Rome and the publications of the International Labour Office at Geneva. (All these documents are in the Redpath Library.)

Bankruptcies: In 1932, bankruptcies totalled 20,192, or about five times the number in Great Britain. (Embassy Report.)

Budgetary position: The budget deficits for the last three years have been:

1931-32	910,000,000 lire
1932-33	4,000,000,000 lire (estimated)
1933-34	2,900,000,000 lire (estimated)

(Embassy report, quoting budget speeches of the Italian Finance Minister.)

Unemployment: In 1929 the average number of wholly unemployed was 300,787. By 1932 the number had more than tripled, 1,006,441. (Embassy report, pages 170-171). For the first six months of 1933, the average of wholly unemployed was 1,074,316, or partially unemployed 38,918. In July the basis of the statistics was changed. For the four months July to October 1933, on the new basis, the number of wholly unemployed averaged 895,771, while the partially unemployed in July and August (the last months for which figures are yet available) averaged 244,428. Embassy Report pages 170-171 International Labour Review December 1933, page 867. An Associated Press dispatch of February 16, 1934, quoting an Italian "official announcement" says that in January of this year the unemployed in Italy increased by 26,161, bringing the total to 1,158,418.

These figures include about 250,000 to 270,000 agricultural workers; but allowing for this, and considering the relatively slight industrialization of Italy, the numbers are shockingly high. Indeed the percentage of unemployment must be among the highest in the world.

The Embassy report presents corroborative evidence of this from a partial census of industry.

In the first week of September 1926 the industries covered employed 989,599 persons. During the period July 1932—February 1933, employment in the same industries was fully one-third below the 1926 figure though the population of Italy had, of course, grown considerably in the interval.

Wages: Italian real wages in 1929 were among the lowest in the civilized world. The International Labour Office index number, taking Great Britain as 100, showed Italy at 42. In the whole of northern, western and central Europe the only countries with lower standards seem to have been Estonia (41) and Portugal (32). (International Labour Review, April 1929, page 572; October, 1929, page 585; December 1929, page 568.)

Has the Italian standard of living risen since then? The Embassy report (page 175) says that since 1927 the cost of living has fallen 15.73%, but the reductions in wages have been very much greater: chemicals 20% to 25%, rayon 30% (the two largest mills 38%), glass 30% to 40%, cotton 40%, woollens 27%, silk weaving 38%, jute, hemp and linen 30%. Metallurgical industries 23%, (besides "specific reductions in individual firms, which have been accorded on a vast scale"), building 30%, wood-working 18%, gas, water and electricity 22%, printing 16%, mining 30%, garment trades 20%. In addition there have been "arbitrary reductions without negotiation," among other means "by regrading of work—staffs and systematic reduction of piece-work rates." This, "in the opinion of the government commissioner for syndicated labour, has reached proportions that call for drastic action."

Industrial and Labour Information (another International Labour Office publication) January 26, 1931, pages 116-117, records a charming comment on some of these wage reductions by Signor Bottai, Minister of Corporations. In an interview with Il Sole, the Minister, discussing reductions totalling 3,000,000,000 lire, observed, "The reduction of consumption due to the loss of income would have valuable psychological and moral consequences by enforcing a more rigorous way of living."

It is a pity that the National Council of Education did not arrange to have any of its several Italian lecturers answer questions at any of their meetings, as Professor Zimmern and Sir Norman Angell did. I hope that it will bear this in mind when it brings us—as no doubt it will in the near future—a distinguished Soviet publicist to lecture with equal candour, charm and persuasiveness on "Russia and the Modern World."

Yours,
Eugene Forsey.

STRAY WISPS

With their money safely tucked in stockings, and with stove poker handy, 20 co-eds in a co-operative house at the University of Minnesota stayed up all night a fortnight ago waiting for prowlers who had previously molested the house.

Students at Florida State College for Women must take an examination on the college government and constitutional rules. Those failing the tests are campused for two weeks. At the end of the punishment another test must be taken successfully before social privileges are regranted.

Who's afraid of the big bad something-or-other? At the University of Wyoming 29 students confessed they were afraid of the dark. One hundred students voted. Forty-nine of the ranchers decided that the automobile was their nemesis.

The Rhode Island Beacon thanks Winchell and we thank them for this bit. "When a woman is beautiful, that's good; when a woman is good, that is beautiful; but when a woman, is beautiful and good, that's a damn shame."

And this apt description from the same paper: "She was a good little girl as far as good little girls go, and as far as good little girls go, she went."

According to a psychological study at Purdue, college students do worry. Some of the causes for worry and percentage of students perplexed by these are: Studies, 42 per cent.; financial, 30 per cent.; family affairs, 15 per cent.; religion, 4 per cent.; affairs of the heart, only 9 per cent. At Springfield there would be quite a difference; 99 per cent. would register for that financial worry and from the looks of the crowd before the mail boxes each morning, there would be almost 100 per cent. worry about fan mail from the weaker sex.

Gettysburg College in Penn., starting its 102nd term this year, is without a co-ed on the campus for the first time in 45 years. After getting used to that type of education it wouldn't be surprising if everybody quit to go to another co-ed school. And who could blame them?

Then there was the sweet young thing who just got out of the hospital for which she had repaired for skin treatment and reported that she had been "ultra violated"—hum!

Bennington fires certain students in a nice intimate way; something cozy about it. The student is told that she can stay if she so wishes, but she will not get a certificate when it is all over. If that does not discourage her, then she really is fired; but most of them can take the hint.

Many students, it was found by a symposium conducted by the Wisconsin Cardinal, stay awake thinking up methods of staying awake. One student who would not speak for publication said that her infallible method of remaining awake in the face of a textbook is to seat herself in a bathtub. If her eyes droop she permits the cold water to run. This girl's second best method is to perch on a table top. Since the time she slipped to the floor through this method, however, she hasn't repeated the stunt.

One student sets the alarm clock to ring at hour intervals. So I suppose that we are to believe that he doesn't sleep more than one hour at a time.

Apparently, no method was devised for the benefit of the instructors who must stay up to mark the papers.

An unknown donor at Auburn University gave a trosh co-ed a copy of "What Every Young Woman Should Know." After reading the book she wrote to the publisher suggesting revision of three chapters and the addition of four chapters.

Players' Club

CASTING takes place today for the plays written by members of the Players' Club. Although these plays are to be completely directed and produced, they will not be put on in public but will be shown only in the Workshop. The object of this is to give the authors an opportunity to have their work criticized during production, and to see themselves what faults of construction show up in the actual staging of their plays.

All members who wish to try out for parts are asked to meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Players' Club.

New Method Shows Structure Of Alloys

Dr. W. L. Bragg Describes Difficulty Of Study

PHOTOGRAPHS ASSIST

"The study of alloys presents more difficulties than most branches of chemistry, as the substances dealt with have not a constant composition," claimed Prof. W. L. Bragg in a lecture delivered to the Physical and Sigma Xi societies Friday afternoon. Dr. Bragg, one of the most eminent men in his field, is a Nobel Prize winner, and has also received the Hughes medal of the Royal Society.

"When one metal is alloyed with another," the speaker continued, "the proportions may vary, but over a certain range the properties are constant. The series may contain several of these 'phases,' as they are called, and it is only recently that the meaning of these has been discovered. This was due to the application of a new method of investigating the crystal structure of the alloy. We now know that each phase has a definite crystal structure, although the number of atoms in each crystal does not remain the same."

Crystal Size Determined
The method used is an invention of Dr. Bragg, in conjunction with his father, and consists of taking a series of x-ray "powder" photographs of the alloy under investigation. From these may be determined not only the number of atoms and the crystalline structure, but also the dimensions and the spacing of the atoms.

New light has also been thrown onto the subject of annealing. When steel, for example, is being made, care must be taken to cool the metal very slowly, otherwise the metal becomes very brittle. The reason is that, when the alloy is very hot it loses crystalline form upon which it depends for its strength. Now, when it is suddenly cooled, the atoms are "frozen" into place, and the metal cannot regain that form.

Theory Predicts Annealing
Modern theory has gone so far that it can predict almost perfectly the time that the metal should be annealed. This has ended all guess-work in the subject, and will allow metallurgists of the future to perfect alloys of much greater efficiency and strength than those we now have."

"I want to tell you, gentlemen, the up-to-date Burley tobacco from Kentucky seed, such as we grow down here in Essex County now—slog our Lake Erie front—cured... graded... matured and manufactured in Canada the way Picobac is today... well... it has the flavour. ## R.V.C. Hockey Team Defeats Bishop's, 5-1

KEN FARMER'S R.V.C. hockey squad continued its long string of victories Saturday night at Lennoxville when it defeated the Bishop's co-eds five goals to one. The first game which was played here earlier in the season resulted in an eight to one victory for McGill.

Without Janet Stephenson and Babs Goulding, who were unable to make the trip, the R.V.C. squad was not as powerful as in earlier games this year, and the purple and white squad held off the attacks of the McGill team for two periods. In the final session three quick goals by the Red forwards spell defeat for the Bishop's girls.

Ruth Schnelly Scores
 Ruth Schnelly led the McGill attack with three goals, and her all-round play made her the individual star of the game. Cary Horner and Lorayne Strachan scored the other two goals for McGill with Beverley Hughes getting an assist on Lorayne Strachan's goal. Kay Savage netted the lone Bishop's counter early in the first period.

McGill: Goal, Clouston; defence, Buchanan, Walbridge, centre, Horner; wings, Russell, Schnelly; subs, McCaig, Strachan.
 Bishop's: Goal, Wallace; defence, Brewer, Parsons; centre, Speid; wings, Hodgins, Christison; subs, Colby, Hughes, McMurray.

Seniors Lose To Co-Eds In Broom Tilt Friday, 8-3

Ah, But The Reward Is Sadly Missed!

Special to McGill Daily By Staff Correspondent
 GREAT excitement prevailed at the south-western portion of the campus Friday afternoon. After pushing through a dense crowd, crawling between "Tiny" Webb's legs, and dodging snowballs, your correspondent discovered a game in progress. It can be defined by no other term than that of mongrel. It consisted of seven members of the fair sex who relentlessly pursued five weak and unoffending men of the senior hockey team. The girls, apparently imbued with "spring fever," were busily chasing these unfortunate males about the McTavish St. rink; but the boys were also armed with brooms with which they defended themselves capably.

The girls were demurely decked out in tunics with red sweaters, and the piece de resistance was the plus fours each girl wore; these garments were a presentation of Major D. Stuart Forbes. While the boys... these modest fellows appeared in costumes provided for the occasion by the Players' Club. Kenny Farmer paraded boldly forth with a Roman helmet and a flashy striped skirt (was it a kilt, Kenny?). Fred Wigle in goal swaggered onto the ice in the Mae Westian style: his voluminous kimono did little to hide the fashionable bustle he wore. Bob McLernon was the cynosure of all eyes as he in turn displayed "the latest" for manly garments. His charming ensemble of pink tulle with dainty petal-like ruffles, and serviceable extra-length dazzling blue stockings caused many murmurs among the fashion-seekers. Jean Paul Elle was nattily dressed in a stunning red and yellow outfit, while Bob McDuff retiringly sought disguise as he resorted to a smartly colored purple and white pinstrip costume. Neil Crutchfield, referee, was dressed in the now out of date long trousers and windbreaker.

Broomball as a Sport
 To explain the game of broomball would require a better genealogist than your correspondent at large. It appeared at first to be closely related to Canada's greatest winter sport, hockey, but the players wore shoes in place of skates, used brooms instead of sticks, and missed one basketball in place of an ordinary puck. As in curling, brooms were employed, and regrettably, not only on the ball. Jean Paul Elle was the recipient of a violent blow on the head from an irate female, who laboriously explained that her in-

Redmen Win Close Game From Blues

Win Hard Fought Game Single Basket, 33-31

LEWIN AND GORMLEY LEAD MCGILL SCORERS

Seconds Drop League Game To Central Y, 28-19

WITH their fourth consecutive intercollegiate championship "in the bag" the Red senior cagers treated a large crowd of spectators to a thrilling exhibition of the hoop game at the M.H.S. gym, managing finally to nose out Toronto in a close 33-31 contest. Heavy body-checking, impassioned oratorical protestations to Referee Sam Levy and brilliant basketball marked the engagement and once more proved conclusively that next to winning the actual championship, the Redmen extract their greatest enjoyment from such concerted exercise, in beating the Varsity Blue-boys. In a curtain raiser the Red seconds lost to Central "Y" by a 28-19 score.

Captain Reed Lewin, playing his last intercollegiate game for McGill, scored 12 points, running his checks dizzy all night, while Gene Gormley, whom Coach Van Wagner started on the first-string forward line in the absence of George Faulkner, uncorked a hitherto dormant long shot which kept the Redmen in the race all the time and which, in the final few minutes of play, made ultimate victory possible.

Floor Slippery
 The whole Red team was functioning well, despite the handicap of a slippery floor which made frequent applications of resin to the soles of their shoes an absolute necessity. Oakie Ross, also playing his final intercollegiate encounter for the martlet-beaters, turned in a uniformly efficient performance on the defence alongside Marty Boves, who started with the opening whistle in place of Eddie Silverman. Don Young checked in his usually effective passing performance, and engineered several mighty handy-scoring efforts, his play-making finding successful completion at the hands of Donny Small, Gormley and Lewin. With about six minutes left to play, Young was chased for four personals, and was given a richly-deserved ovation for his stellar efforts.

For Toronto, Red Gordon was the most effective man on the floor, being responsible for practically every close-in basket that trumped the efforts of the Red defence. About halfway through the second period, the Blueboys' star defenceman, Phil Gold, finally snapped out of his lethargic efforts to plunk in three brilliant long shots in a row, putting Varsity out in front by six points. Later, with ten seconds to go, and the count 33-31 for McGill, Gold dribbled up to the Red end of the floor and let fly a beautiful long one which went in just as the final bell sounded. Referee Levy called it no basket, and was immediately surrounded by a horde of blue-shirts who demanded to know what it was all about. After a heated discussion, however, it transpired that Gold, in his haste to advance the ball, had committed a violation in travelling, and in the pandemonium which his shot occasioned, the referee's whistle had not been heard.

Travelling Violation
 It is unfortunate that the game ended at this point, as the basket not being allowed, the ball would have been handed to McGill and a lot of doubt cleared up. As it was, the audience was uncertain exactly how to interpret Referee Levy's decision. Accordingly, McGill completed the

Reds And Canucks At Full Strength For Final Series

McGILL and Canadens will be at full strength for the first game of their senior league hockey finals Wednesday night. Crutchfield and Pilon the injured players of the respective squads will both be back in action though it is expected that the coaches will use them sparingly. Wednesday night's game is the first of a two out of three game series, the second being played on Friday, and the third if necessary on Monday. The winner of the series will continue against the winner of the intermediate provincial playoffs in a two game series played March 14 and 16. Jack McGill led all scorers in the semi-final round of the Senior league with two goals and two assists. Hugh Farquharson and Ethier and Brunet of Verdun were right behind him with three points each.

Freshettes In Easy 62-20 Cage Victory

THE McGill freshettes' basketball team proved too experienced a squad for the Shawinigan High School girls' team, Saturday morning, and defeated them by the score of 62-20. Smart passing combinations by both teams featured the game and the difference in the score was chiefly due to the more accurate shooting of the freshettes.

The game was played in the R.V.C. Convocation Hall, and the strange floor was a decided handicap to the Shawinigan girls. The McGill team had several of the R.V.C. senior squad on the line-up, and the smart play of these co-eds tricked the Shawinigan defense time and again.

Fifteen Crutchlow Stars
 Eileen Crutchlow, star of the senior squad, was high scorer with 34 points. The accurate shooting of the brilliant centre player, was the highlight of the game. E. Buck of Shawinigan Falls, led the scorers for her team with 10 points.

them through. Then, realizing that all this involved too heavy expenditure, the administration substituted in its place, direct relief, aiding the provincial and municipal governments to the extent of one-third, and sometimes more. Camps were established all over the country which housed over 20,000 homeless men.

In regard to trade, "Canada has held her position of fifth in the world. When the Conservatives came to power, the country had an adverse balance of trade, which was a dangerous thing for a debtor country like Canada. The government tried to meet this by raising its tariff, particularly with regard to the United States, which always sold much more to us than it bought. At the Empire conferences Bennett made trade agreements with Britain and the Dominions which, stated the speaker, have been of great benefit to Canada, increasing her export trade. Canada's higher tariff was a defensive measure against the other countries which heightened their tariffs. For example, Germany, France and Italy imposed high duties on Canadian wheat, affecting the farmer unfavorably.

With regard to the railway problem, the government has given great attention to it, particularly with a view to economising. It has been partially successful, without impairing the efficiency of management. The commission in charge is an earnest, able one.

The only alternative for the Conservative party, stated the speaker, are the Liberals and the C.C.F. With regard to the former, so far it had no constructive policy to offer. As for the latter, its leader, Mr. Woodsworth, advocates socialism—of banks, industry and public utilities. This, stated Dr. Manion, was undesirable, for government control would result in political influence and local pressure being brought to bear, to the disadvantage of the country as a whole.

"There is an error in distribution in the capitalistic system and that must be eradicated. It is the duty of the politicians and the business men to help and correct this," concluded the speaker.

"MY belief is that the Union only serves its true purpose so long as the House Committee strives in every possible way to co-operate with the various organizations of the University when they should have occasion to make use of the facilities of the Building.

Red MacLennan.

"I elected to office I shall do my best to assist and back-up the President in his duties; to try and promote more and diversified tournaments, Ping-Pong, Billiards, etc; and to hold more and larger informal Dances at reasonable rates."

R. Burton Haley.

John Taylor in issuing a joint statement with Grisdale who is running for Vice-President of the Union pointed out that he felt that the Union had been well administered this year and that it is in the best interests of the students that the various faculties be represented on the executive.

Bill Sellar could not be communicated with last night but he is expected to announce his platform in tomorrow's Daily.

Union Secretary

The position of Secretary of the McGill Union is being contested by Kenneth Daddon and John H. McDonald whose platforms follow:

"If I am elected Secretary of the Union, I will do my best to make the Union the club of the Campus. I feel that this may best be accomplished by serving high grade food in the Cafeteria, by securing a number of first class periodicals for the Reading Room which should be made as homelike as possible, by continuing to hold snooker and ping-pong tournaments, and adding an inter-class or inter-faculty bridge tournament, by holding more Union House dances, and by introducing tea dances after the football games next fall.

I am sure that the use, and also the revenue, of the Union could be increased by persuading the various Campus organizations to hold their luncheons and dances in the Union rather than elsewhere. This could be done if the Grill Room and Ball Room were made as attractive as possible with the available funds. As Secretary I would be in an excellent position to secure some of this new business."

John H. McDonald.

"I HEREWITH submit the following platform:

That steps be taken to make the facilities of the Union more attractive to the student body at McGill. In this respect such a policy would proceed logically from the point reached by the present administration. It would be a continued application of their aims and would involve a careful consideration of all factors which might affect the usefulness of the Union to the student body in general."

Redmen Win Close Game From Blues

1934 basketball season without a loss, and extended their remarkable string of intercollegiate victories to 23 out of 24 games in the past four years, a record which has never been equalled within the circuit. Coach Van Wagner's cohorts play their final game of the year Wednesday night against Nationale for the Dadds' Cup. Nationale won the right to meet the Redmen for the trophy, emblematic of the city championship, by their smashing 40-17 victory over N. D. G. Saturday night. The game Wednesday which will be played at the Sun Life gym, should result in one of the finest local cage exhibitions of the season, since the Redmen are determined to reverse those two lemons handed to them by the Nats in previous engagements, while the French squad is still smarting over the defeat McGill plastered onto them last week.

The line-ups:

McGill (33): Ross, Bowes, Young 3, Lewin 12, Gormley 12, Small 6. Toronto (31): Sniderman 2, Gold 8, Mitchell 4, Bodrug 4, Willis 2, Newman, Gordon 11, Prince, Levy.

McGill Seconds (19): Conklin 5, Wilson 4, Greenblatt, Levites 3, Scriver 3, Jeffrey 4, Corrigan, Boyd. Central "Y" (28): Parker 4, Ward 2, Florio 10, Sutsky, Creese 5, Wright 2, B. Creese 3, Chislett 2.

Seniors Lose To Co-Eds In Broom Tilt Friday, 8-3

(continued from page three) tentions had been quite honorable . . . that she had only intended to knock his hat off, not his head!

After several minutes of play, Fred Wigle in goal became impatient. He picked up the ball, tenderly placed it in his lampshade bustle, gathered his robe about him and majestically started towards the other net. The fair maidens did not seem to object to this nefarious deed, but became incensed when the remainder of the men's team grouped together to form a "flying wedge." Cries of "interference" were heard and the players nearly became embroiled in fistcuffs, as they discussed the legality of the act, during which Referee Crutchfield penalized three men. Meanwhile Fred Wigle retained possession of the ball, completed his rink-length dash, and on arriving at his destination entirely fooled the opposing goalie Janet Clouston, as he turned his back upon this innocent girl and attempted to shake the sphere into the nets. But the villain was foiled as the globular body annoyingly escaped the mouth of the goal.

No Osculation

After Ruth Schnebly scored the first goal for the honor of dear old R.V.C., all present held their breaths as they awaited the fulfillment of the reward promised for this feat. Fred was ready (and willing), Ruth thought of Montreal West, and modestly turned away. Kenny Farmer and Bob McDuff exhorted the shy miss to "snap out of it," but she diffidently refused the privilege and honor. But the keen eye of your observer viewed with kindness the romance blossoming between Fred and Janet, the two rival goalies. It would be quite safe to state that Fred spent more time at the other end of the rink than in his own nets. He was disconcerted at one time as everyone watched him crawl out of Janet's goal, after he had thrown himself at her feet. (For further information regarding this amoral do your own asking.)

The only unpleasant feature of the afternoon's amusement was the throwing of snowballs. The Plumbers, although greatly outnumbered by the Arts students, resolved that such an occasion for a snow battle should not pass without vaunting their superiority. Hence a battle royal took place between the faculties, but lamentably it was carried too far as it suddenly turned into a snow-fest against the players on the ice. The game was called to a halt by Referee Neils Crutchfield, who feared that a snowball might hit one of his players in the eye. Your writer felt like a war correspondent under fire.

Players' Club Efforts

Many thanks are due the Players' Club for the loan of the costumes for the boys, while Major Forbes plus fours added to the enjoyment of the spectators. Kenny Farmer, J. P. Elle, Bob McLernon, Bob McDuff, and last but not least, Fred Wigle of the senior team were extremely amusing. Janet Clouston, Beverly Hughes, Lorayne Strachan, Marg. McCualg, Cary Horner, Jean Buchanan, Ruth Schnebly, Ruth Russell and Edith Walbridge were the girls who played for R.V.C. Hollie

Macdonald College Stages Yearly Show

Macdonald College staged their annual Green and Gold Revue on Friday and Saturday. It was entitled, "Love in a Mare's Nest" or "Two Days in Very Benighted States of Mind," and was laid in the Palace and Woods of those States.

The action surrounds the President of the Benighted States, his cabinet, his daughter and wife (a mare), and the bandits of the woods. The abduction by the bandits of Sally, the daughter of the President provided the centre of the play. The chorus, as Sally's school-friends, and the bandits made up the supporting cast. There were two acts in the play, the first was laid in the palace, the second in the woods where Sally was abducted and finally rescued.

The producer, Owen Smith, was ably assisted by the Committee of D. Harvey, G. Shewell and R. Flood. The principle characters were: the President, Sidney Williams; Sally Doreen Thomson; the Secretary, Gordon Herbert; the Mare, D. Savile and H. R. Hudston.
